FR JOE'S MUSINGS

Dear Friends,

We have to hang in there for another week of lockdown! Not easy for all of us, I know. I have reached a dark point! Of course, we all want to have our lives back. Normality – that's what we all want. We want to go to work, to meet friends and relatives, just to have a coffee or take off the mask! As a Parish Priest, I am also worried about how I am going to keep our committed staff and pay them the wages they deserve. How am I to pay the insurances and utilities and other bills? How am I going to spread the Word of God when the church building is closed and empty? How am I able to dispense the sacraments and console those who are lonely and elderly?

But what would be the price we would have to pay for a short-term freedom? And are we willing to pay for it?

I have never felt so powerless and humiliated! I am waiting and waiting into the night and when I am awake, I am still waiting as if the night does not know the light. Who is my enemy? It takes only one single virus to bring the entire globe to its knee! Even the most powerful nations failed to contain it. The scientific community never saw the virus coming and although COVID-19 is a variant of the known Coronavirus family, not a single lab had foreseen its genetic structure. Many citizens could not pay their final respects to loved ones who died alone. Today, pandemic management around the world has resulted in nothing positive except for governments to say that were it not for stringent measures, things could have been a lot worse — a horribly low standard of performance measurement.

Yet I won't give up my faith because it is the only window of hope I have. There are three things I can do. Instead of wasting my time in lamenting about things I have no power over, I – free from a busy schedule – can build up my relationship with God. Most of us pray every day. A quick mealtime prayer or a few moments in the morning or before we go to bed are pretty common practices. But praying is mostly a rare effort. Without our usual busy schedules, staying at home creates more space for us to get close to God in prayer.

Seeing the death toll rise, we learnt that time has one direction, and you never know what tomorrow holds. It was (still is) possible to be on the COVID-19 cases list any day. That is why we need to appreciate what we have today. When that opportunity is gone, it is gone! You can't get time back, and tomorrow is not guaranteed.

ST. FINBAR'S PARISH NEWS

FR JOE'S MUSINGS

Think about the things that have caused strife in families. They are generally very small matters that were blown out of proportion or misunderstood. During lockdown, we had a lot of time to connect with our families, we learnt that quarrelling and misunderstandings over petty things are simply not worth it.

Perhaps, these are good things that come with the lockdown. Recognize there are things about endings and beginnings that we do not control. Act on what we can control but recognize and move on from what we can't control. And finally, take time to remember that God is with us through all the events of our lives, and that these endings and beginnings are no different.

Let us ask for God's grace and help as we pursue these endings and these beginnings together with patience, perseverance, and trust in what He has planned for us.

Fr. Joe
